OUR CURRICULUM

Our degree program combines three awesome fields: business, media, and AI tools. The focus of the business classes is on marketing and management. Classes on media design, media production and storytelling will introduce you to professional content creation. Since Artificial Intelligence (AI) is gaining more and more importance, you will learn how to use AI tools to create content, such as stories, videos and podcasts. AI tools can even help you in marketing, for example to make smart decisions, analyze markets, target customers or run campaigns. However, the pros and cons of AI, as well as how it affects society and the environment, shouldn't be ignored and will be discussed.

In addition, you will also improve your language skills in either English or German, depending on your native language. Several soft skills modules will support your personal development and teach you skills needed for your work life. During the last two semesters you will gain hands-on experiences in several practical projects with companies and social institutions. Join our degree program to get prepared for the future of work and life!
