

PhishCoach

- + Software Project

- + Steffen Schawjinski (ss533)

 - + Medieninformatik (CSM-B) Semester 6

- + Jonas Koch (jk249)

 - + Medieninformatik (CSM-B) Semester 6

- + Description: A training tool to help recognize phishing emails

- + Technologies: Django Webapplikation

Our Learn-Tool

The screenshot displays the PhishCoach interface. At the top left is the PhishCoach logo, and at the top right is a '3/3' indicator and a circular icon with a square inside. Below this is an email header with a green circular icon containing a white 'A'. The header text reads: 'From: Adam Sandle <adam.sandle@gmail.com>', 'To: Mich <JohnDoe@bestCompany.com>', and 'Subject: Presentation for scheduled meeting'. The email body contains the text: 'Hi John,', 'Do you remember this photo from our last vacation to Canada? drive.google.com', 'best regards', and 'Adam Sandle'. At the bottom of the email content area, there are two dark blue buttons: 'Phishing' on the left and 'Authentic' on the right. Below the email content area, a dark green bar contains the URL 'http://drive.google.com/adam.sandle'.

Configurable

Random
Order

Configurator

Change email

1, adam.sandle@gmail.com, Adam Sandle, Presentation for scheduled meeting

HISTORY

Sender: adam.sandle@gmail.com

Sender name: Adam Sandle

Subject: Presentation for scheduled meeting

Content:

```
Hi John,

Do you remember this photo from our last vacation to Canada? http://drive-google.com/adam.sandledrive.google.com

```

Real

Solution:

This one is a Phishing mail.

The sender is somewhat questionable and the link tries to navigate you to a look alike url drive-google.com instead of drive.google.com Additionally, the connection does not use https which should make you skeptical, especially when you are being redirected to a big company like google.

Has attachment

Attachment: none

SAVE

Save and add another

Save and continue editing

Delete